>>CTTI<<

Designer: Marc Casany Estrada (ACXT architects)

Location: Hospitalet de Llobregat, Barcelona, Spain, Europe

Photographer: Eugeni Pons

Area: 6.400 m²

The project consists on the renovation of an existing building, transforming it in the new offices of the Centre for telecommunications and information technologies of Catalunya's Government.

ACXT Architects Barcelona studio faced the challenge of transforming a dismal basement space into a new, collaborative working environment. As well as functioning as a base for CTTI's activities in Catalonia, the new office also had to represent the organization's core values: Innovation, excellence, service and communication. "The starting point was a new way of working, a new scenario that would represent a different perspective on office operations and would further respond to CTTI's desire of being a truly excellent technology-services supplier" says Marc Casany Estrada, the author.
